

Maritime Day 50(Last Day) October 11, 2010 78 degrees F, Sunny 88 degrees by 11:00

We left the Coastal RV Resort at 11:00 am. Although there was no shade, this was a new, clean and modern campground with all paved sites and bushes separating each site. Just before we left, Lorene showed off her newly knitted scarf. She purchased the yarn in Baddeck, Nova Scotia and we challenged her to finish it by the time we got to Florida. Today we will be back in Florida so she is right on schedule! Today is our 50th day and while we will not arrive home for a few days, our Maritime Trip is technically at its end!

We arrived at Fort Wilderness, Disney World at 3:00. This is one of our favorite places to vacation! Our campsites are in the 2000 loop. After a short rest, we went off by bus and boat to the Wilderness Lodge for drinks and a light dinner. During dinner several bats came flying by! We learned the wildlife people were trying to capture them and send them outside but the bats were afraid of the crowds of people and kept hiding. Back to the campground by boat and bus, again. It is a beautiful night with many stars visible and a nice breeze blowing. It should be great sleeping weather.

For a few more days we will do all the fun activities we love at Disney such as visiting with our friends, Barbara and Richard Overkamp, attending movies at Pleasure Island, riding the boat and the monorail, having High Tea at the Grand Floridian and shopping at Disney Village. Later this week we will head home for the season. I hope you've enjoyed reading about our adventures! We have certainly loved sharing with you!
